Increase your Research Impact through Knowledge Exchange Training Program

Our training program is intended for researchers across all disciplines and at all career stages. No matter your experience level, the training program will help you refine your approach to communication and partnerships with the public, private and not-for-profit sectors throughout your research. Below are our current workshop offerings.

Workshops

Communicate your research message
Learn the importance of effective communication and when, how, and with whom to communicate to amplify your message.

Situate your research in a wider context
Map the context to see where your research fits and navigate the unique set of people, networks, processes, and motivations that give shape to the context.

Align protocols, expectations, and processes
Build effective partnerships (part 1) by establishing clear parameters to start on the right foot and course-correct when things don't go as planned.

Co-create activities, products and tools
Build effective partnerships (part 2) by collaborating and mobilizing external partners in sharing and creating knowledge that resonates with their interests, needs and concerns.

Plan for change
Design an integrated plan to drive positive change with your research.

"I really appreciated the opportunity to participate in the program. I wish I’d had this program when I first joined UBC as an assistant professor. I would highly recommend that new faculty, at all academic ranks, be encouraged to take this course."

"It was positive that individuals of different ages, and at different stages in their career, participated in this course..."

"I really appreciated and benefited from this Kx Summer Institute - thanks for putting it together!..."
